

Please do NOT preempt Wisconsin state laws restricting telemarketers.

I am especially concerned that the Wisconsin restrictions on how many times a company may contact a former client. When I cease doing business with a phone company, bank or other business, I want a limit on how many times they may call me to try to get me back as a customer.

I am also concerned about the much looser definitions in Federal law of how widely companies may share their "current client" lists. Just because I start doing business with one company doesn't mean I want phone calls from all their partners and allies.

Thank you,
